

Some Legends Never Die

The Rumjacks

Screaming halt to a chunk of steel
We got the news that you slipped the reel
We raise a glass as you pass on by
Some legends, they never die

When my mind wouldn't stop
Like a thrown molotov
I'd just listen to the words
Of the songs that picked us up
The songs that got us by
The type of songs we needed
When the world ran dry

All that's said and done, you don't have long
You can live forever only in a song
All that's said and done, you don't have long
You can live forever only in a song

With the memory sealed in glass
We stood in line as the torch was passed
Just as a fire tends to multiply
Some legends, they never die

With the torch in our hands
And the fields at our feet
It's the trails that we blaze
That become tomorrow's roads
We've all got our stories to tell
Until we're given up the ghost
We're gonna sing 'em 'til the bell

All that's said and done, you don't have long
You can live forever only in a song
All that's said and done, you don't have long
You can live forever only in a song

Some legends, they never die
(Some legends, they never die)
Just a tale to a passer-by
(Some legends, they never die)

I think of the fallen
What was their calling?
The stories we tell
That lift us when we're crawling
And we keep 'em with us
I think I know why
Some legends, they never die

All that's said and done, you don't have long
You can live forever only in a song
All that's said and done, you don't have long
You can live forever only in a song

Some legends, they never die
Some legends, they never die
Some legends, they never die

Some legends, they never die
