

Change the World

The Screaming Jets

He's on his way again, same old start, same old end
He's content to live a life like a rat in a cage
There's no use standing out, but he's gonna make it out
He wants to be the king of the world someday
Bitin' another bitter pill, but he doesn't mind the taste
He doesn't have to come first in this race

I'm not lying, but I'm not trying to drag you down

She's standing in the rain again, soaked to her flesh, that's i n her skin
Lost in a season of anticipating
She's gonna stake him out, built up on his fear and doubt
She don't wanna be the heartbroken someday

I'm not lying, but I'm not trying to drag you down
You know that you can change the world tomorrow
You can change the world

"Lifted up, so high and mighty...", he prays to Jesus Christ Al mighty
Bought him his boat and a house on the hill
He's gonna to take you all the way to heaven
He wants to take you to heaven

You know that you can change the world tomorrow

I'm not lying, I'm not trying to drag you down
You know that you can change the world tomorrow
You can change the world
You can change the world