

It's Alright

The Screaming Jets

I sleep in and all I do is dream
I keep pushing myself to extremes
There's no gratitude and there's no lies
The pressure's what you gotta try to survive
But they'll never understand my pitiful existence

It's all right there's no use talking
Too late, they've made up their minds
It's all right there's no use talking
Too late, they've made up their minds

I was the one who was changing
I was the one who was new
I tried to look for a better way
But you said it just wouldn't do

It burns my feelings and it hurts my pride
It tears me apart and I don't know why
The things I do for kicks I just don't understand
Just keep your attitude and you'll make a man
They'll never understand your pitiful existence

It's all right there's no use talking
Too late they've made up there minds
It's all right there's no use talking
Too late they've made up there minds

I was the one who was changing
I was the one who was new
I tried to look for a better way
You said it just wouldn't do

It's all right there's no use talking
Too late they've made up there minds
It's all right there's no use talking
Too late they've made up there minds
All right there's no use talking
It's too late, it's too late

I was the one who was changing
I was the one who was new
I tried to look for a better way
You said it just wouldn't do

Well, it's all right
Said there's no use talking anymore
It's much, much to late
I'm not listening to you anymore
