Sorry

The Sherlocks

If I gave you an inch, you'd take a mile
Fell into the trap of your innocent smile
Sink, I'll swim, I wish I'd never jumped in
The water just seems so appealing

I'd love to say that I'm wrong
But that makes two wrongs
I'd love to finish this song
But I'm just useless
I need time to think it over
I need time to think it over

Sorry, but I just don't care
So go and tell your friends I was so unfair
That you were spending time in the devil's lair
Well maybe one day, you'll see things better

If I gave you the world, you'd still want more
We were caught in a landslide that no one else saw
I know that it hurts, but I know my worth
I know when it's time to believe

I gave you nothing but love in spite of everything
You gave me nothing but trouble, this time again
You leave me with no direction
I'll walk home with self-reflection

Sorry, but I just don't care
So go and tell your friends I was so unfair
That you were spending time in the devil's lair
Well maybe one day, you'll see things better

Oh oh-oh
Oh oh-oh
Oh oh-oh

Just sing your song, believe your lines
The truth is there, dressed in disguise
So follow way that no one else see
Is the final picture you painted of me
Like it cannot get you everything I'm not
One more thing 'til the final star
The times we shared, the times I changed
I'm so lost forever

Sorry, but I just don't care
So go and tell your friends I was so unfair
That you were spending time in the devil's lair
Well maybe one day, you'll see things better

Oh oh-oh
Oh oh-oh
Well maybe one day, you'll see things better
