

Will You Be There?

The Sherlocks

Do you think you could be the one
To tell us what went wrong
Cause we don't see it like you do

You're upon the ice it's looking thin
You're on the outside looking in
You should be alright

When they all stop falling
Will you be there?
Will you be there?
When you hear them calling
Will you be there to pick them up?
Will you be there?

Lay down on your bed of roses
And take the ship down from your shoulders

You're upon the ice it's looking thin
You're on the outside looking in
You should be alright

When they all stop falling
You'll be nowhere to be seen
You don't know where you're going
But you know just where you've been

And they say
Well every dog will have its day
And it's coming round

When they all stop falling
Will you be there?
Will you be there?
When you hear them calling
Will you be there to pick them up?
Will you be there?

When they all stop falling
Will you be there?
Will you be there?
When you hear them calling
Will you be there to pick them up?
Will you be there?

When they all stop falling
Will you be there?
Will you be there?
When you hear them calling
Will you be there?
Will you be there?
Will you be there?
