

Donkey Brain

The Skints

You're on your own, you're on your own
You fled from the course on a donkey brained horse
You're on your own, you're on your own
And you'll find in your vacuous divide that your situation
Dislocates your mind

You're on your own, you're on your own
You fled from the course on a donkey brained horse
You're on your own, you're on your own
And you'll find in your vacuous divide that your situation
Dislocates your mind

Never mind, this was never your design
Before the hand was dealt to play
You went stumbling away
Choose wisely, for with every choice you make
Comes these little ways to break

You're on your own, you're on your own
You fled from the course on a donkey brained horse
You're on your own, you're on your own
And you'll find in your vacuous divide that your situation
Dislocates your mind

And never mind, this was never your design
Before the hand was dealt to play
You went stumbling away
Choose wisely, for with every choice you make
Comes these little ways to break
For with every choice you make
Comes these little ways to break
For with every choice you make
Comes these little ways to break
For with every choice you make
Comes these little ways to break
