

Don't Have To

The Slackers

You feel good?
You feel alright?
The boys backstage thought you might need a little more.
Let's do it!

I spent three years learnin' how to talk,
The next thirty learnin' not to.
Two years learnin' how to walk,
about the same for a motorcycle.
Eight years living in a powder keg,
to light the matches.

But now I found you,
And you found me too
So now I just don't have to

I walked five miles up a hill through a foot of snow,
To make a phone call on your birthday.
I swam 8 miles fighting a hammerhead shark,
To get your present there by Thursday.
Climbed a thousand foot hill using only one hand,
Just to tell the world of my affections

But you already knew,
That our love grew,
And now I just don't have to.

I spend no time taking you for granted,
And I guess that I never will now.
A lot of time thinking about your love,
Because you're givin' me such a thrill now.
Sunday morning I'm thankin' The Lord for you,
With a quick nod to the devil.

I was so blue,
Just waiting for you
now I just don't have to.
Just don't have to.
I said now I just don't have to.
Don't have to.
