

In the Red

The Soviettes

I heard you said that girls like me are better off red.
But you know what the say, the free market closes at the end of the day. Well I always thought it's not what you're given, it's what you got. The satus quo, it's killing me. You want to see the lower class bleed, but I gotta believe there's a problem with the system now, where most of us have nothing. We'll keep the two-thirds you allow. Check to check with half of that to pay my rent. Send the rest to interest on my growing debt. I know what I'm worth and it can't be measured by the place of my birth. The status quo it's killing me. You get your gun, you upper class blood. I believe there's a problem with the system now, where most of us have nothing. We'll keep the two-thirds that you allow.
