

At The River

The SteelDrivers

Is your heart feelin' empty
Is your faith runnin' dry
Is your pain too hard to carry
Do you hang your head and cry

Rich man, poor man, sinner, saint
Come on down to the sacred place

At the river
Will be singing shall we gather at the river
At the river
Where you lay your burdens down to be delivered
At the river, at the river, at the river

John the Baptist in the water
You'll feel Jesus and His love
Let the spirit come upon you
On the wings of a dove

Down the bank the water waits
Waves of everlasting grace

At the river
Will be singing shall we gather at the river
At the river
Where you lay your burdens down to be delivered
At the river, at the river, at the river

At the river
Born again, rising up to be forgiven
At the river
Find the joy and find the reason to be livin'
At the river, at the river, at the river

At the river
Will be singing shall we gather at the river
At the river
Where you lay your burdens down to be delivered
At the river, at the river, at the river
