

Nobody's Hero

The Strange Familiar

You wonder how you ended up here
Wandering through steps you can't retrace
Memories scream
Caged in your head
Haunted by ghosts you cannot face
You feel their pain as the bullets cut through
Asking yourself
Why couldn't it have been you
And you're nobody's hero

You wear your heart on your sleeve
You wear it out til it bleeds
You're tattooed with excuses
You're dying to believe
You hold your hand on your chest
Pledge allegiance with regret
You have all of the bruises
To prove you deserve
A second chance

You know you can't hide
From what you've become
Every day is like a sentence you've earned
No camouflage
Can cover your lies
You can't forget all the lessons you learned
Relive the pain
As the silence cuts through
Asking how much more can this world take from you
And you're nobody's hero

You wear your heart on your sleeve
You wear it out til it bleeds
You're tattooed with excuses
You're dying to believe
You hold your hand on your chest
Pledge allegiance with regret
You have all of the bruises
To prove you deserve
A second chance

And you know
You got nothing left
But you'd give anything to forget

You wear your heart on your sleeve
You wear it out til it bleeds
You're tattooed with excuses
You're dying to believe
You hold your hand on your chest
Pledge allegiance with regret
You have all of the bruises
To prove you deserve
A second chance

And you're nobody's hero

You didn't ask for this
You didn't ask for this

And you're nobody's hero
