

Miles Ahead

The Strike

Time

Time stands still

And I'm in over my head cause I

I've heard looks can kill

I'm wondering how I'm not dead

Cause one look from you could turn me right to stone

One look could cut me deeper than I've ever known

You know that I can never look back

You're the freeway queen

Running reds like green

I'm that teenage kid, running things back in my head

Life's your stage and scene, your script's so obscene

I play, I forget

When you say things you've said

Acting like your life, it won't end

Yet each night is the last again

I keep running, but forever you're miles ahead

Love

We found love

Will we lose it like everyone does?

I'm feeling too high up

I see you're loving this rush

A one time killer can't get enough

You draw blood and you paint with a dark brush

You're the one

And I can never look back

You're that freeway queen

Running reds like green

I'm that teenage kid, running things back in my head

Life's your stage and scene, your script's so obscene

I play, I forget

When you say things you've said

Acting like your life, it won't end

Yet each night is the last again

I keep running, but forever you're miles ahead

And when the night is over and you got nowhere to go

I will be there to break your fall

And I know that it sounds soft, but I would love to walk you home

You're that freeway queen

Running reds like green

I'm that teenage kid, running things back in my head

You're that freeway queen

Running reds like green

I'm that teenage kid, running things back in my head

Life's your stage and scene, your script's so obscene

I play, I forget

When you say things you've said

Acting like your life, it won't end

Yet each night is the last again

I keep running, but forever you're miles ahead

I keep running, but forever you're miles ahead

I keep running, but forever you're miles ahead
I keep running, I can give up when I'm dead
I keep running, but forever you're miles ahead
