

Fire

The Submarines

when we were left alone under the constellations glow so many times i wanted your love but i could never let you know under the cover of deep dark night we go on and on and why were we waiting for so long this won't be wrong when daylight comes beneath the same bright stars where all your friends lie fast a sleep we let the campfire burn to embers you've never been so close to me stop talking i can't wait no need to say the right thing

under the cover of deep dark night

you and i alone with all the secrets that were told so many times i wanted your love but i could never let you know

under the cover of deep dark night

we'll be under the covers and out with the light we'll go on and on and you know we waited for so long this can't be wrong if we hold on can you see me now can hear me now can you feel me now can you see me now the fire next time we meet we won't hide anything

you always say the right thing
