

Never Again

The Sweepings

Come now come forward, sing softly the song
Way mid the winter, the grey hidden sun
Bells whisper gently, so lonely they sing
Long days of seasons where once memories dreamed

We're covered in white as the night flickers in
Swear never again, never again
The wake of our voices tracked deep down within
Swear never again, never again

Come now come boldly, bring light to this life
Sallow and barren, the melody hides
Trees bend and break by the winter gone cold
Stolen the warmth of months harbored and old

We're covered in white as the night flickers in
Swear never again, never again
The wake of our voices tracked deep down within
Swear never again, never again

Swear never, swear never again
Swear never, swear never again

We're covered in white as the night flickers in
Swear never again, never again
The wake of our voices tracked deep down within
Swear never again, never again
