The Sweepings

When I was a young girl
I dreamed of foreign lands
To find myself a new home
With things I never had
When I was a young boy
I wandered over hills
Looking for a place where
A future could be built

How could I have known
It was you?
There all along
Across the blue

You will find me running, running
Roaming, heart is coming
Farther than before
Farther than before
I am running
Running to you

Now that I am older
And gone from mothers care
My sweet taste of wander
It lingers in the air

How could I have known
It was you?
There all along
Across the blue

You will find me running, running
Roaming, heart is coming
Farther than before
Farther than before
I am running
Running to you

Where you (I've waited) go I'll follow
Where you (so long too) go I'll follow
Be running by your side
Where you (found myself) go I'll follow
Where you (next to you) go I'll follow
Just running by your side

You will find me running, running

You will find me running, running
Roaming, heart is coming
Farther than before
Farther than before
I am running

You will find me running, running
Roaming, heart is coming
Farther than before
Farther than before

I am running
Running to you
