

Purchase Rope

The Taxpayers

This bus never comes on time when you need it to, and when it finally does the driver takes his break. And by the time you arrive, there ain't a person inside, and it's apparent that the building's clock has always run late

And in the shelter on Broad there is a man in a white coat who is threatening the people who dare to come too close. But when he falls back asleep in his seat, all his friends run off to purchase rope

9 times out of 10 they will get your money if they want it. That's the thing about the framework that you've gotta understand.

And you can take it from Sheila, there ain't a person that'll help ya. It's the kind of thing the devil loves to hear about. Ya know?

And at the banks of the river where the garbage collects there is a group of kids trying not to stick out their necks. But when they do get close, there's another group of folks who get rope

9 times out of 10 the engine fails deep in the desert

9 times out of 10 the junkie gets his fix or gets sick

9 times out of 10 the rope breaks when you're hanging by a thread and you end up in a bottomless pit

And in the depths of a warehouse a rotar arm breaks, and everybody starts to panic as they attempt to replace it. So the foreman hits the road, he's heading straight to his home to gather coils of rope
