

Waiting For Something

The Tokens

I finally found a place to park
Before the light removed the dark
This morning
I was quiet, at least I tried
But every sound seemed amplified
This morning

There was something wrong for sure
'Cause the lock upon my door was broken
From inside there came a voice
And the words were very choice when spoken

"Hi, I've been waiting for you," she said
"You have a very, very comfortable bed"
I've been waiting for you (I've been waiting for you)
I've been waiting for you (I've been waiting)

Well I couldn't believe my eyes
And I couldn't believe my ears
For nothing
So I walked down to the beach
And I watched the sun come up
For something

It was very lovely day, 'till my head got in the way
The doctor!
So I hopped on to a train
What could he help to explain anyway?

"Hi, I've been waiting for you," he said
"What's going on inside your head?"
I've been waiting for you (I've been waiting for you)
I've been waiting for

What am I waiting for?
Will I wait forever more?
I bet I'm not the only one
Who's waiting for something

What am I waiting for?
Will I wait forever more?
I bet I'm not the only one
Who's waiting for something