

Jericho

The Trews

Slipping on the lies you tell
Make it famous, Drake hotel
Riding high, running blind
You're a legend in your own mind

And the reason that you are left here on your own
You still can't admit to yourself that you're wrong

Jericho, Jericho
Move on, move on
Jericho, I let it go
Too long, so long
Jericho

You said you want to go back home
In a red Corvette with your song on
Is it clear, in the rear view mirror
You forgot the things that got you here

[?] after all, after all that you've done
You still can't admit to yourself that you're wrong

Jericho, Jericho
Move on, move on
Jericho, I let it go
Too long, so long
Jericho, Jericho
You've become someone I don't wanna know
Jericho, Jericho
'Cause you're wearing the emperor's clothes

Time's up
Line up
To rise up
Good enough
Is good enough
You're well enough alone

You were lost and now you hide
It's better for your foolish pride
All you had to do was try
With all you had

Jericho, Jericho
Move on, move on
Jericho, I let it go
Too long, so long
Jericho, Jericho
You've become someone I don't wanna know
Jericho, Jericho
Because you're wearing the emperor's clothes

Move on, move on
Jericho, I let it go
Too long, so long
Jericho, Jericho

Jericho, Jericho
Oh you're wearing the emperor's clothes

Move on, move on
Jericho
Too long, so long
Jericho
Jericho, Jericho
Because you're wearing the emperor's clothes

Move on, move on
Jericho
Too long, so long
Jericho
