

Ocean's End

The Trews

Like your feelings and the seasons
Everything can change
Life's Chamelion without reason
Gives and takes away
We are drifters, all together
In a world of castaways
Undercurrents overcome us
Or were swept out with the waves

Take me away, my world is drowning me
Now that I know myself I finally see

The ever changing tide
Has turned around again
Takes me for a ride
To the ocean's end
Carry on
Carry on
Carry on

It ain't easy being lonesome
In these unforgiving days
We find lifeboats, call them lovers
And its sad to see them stray
We are hopeless, then we are hopefull
But all we really know
Like your feelings and the seasons everything must go

Take me away my world is drowning me
Now that I know myself I finally see

The ever changing tide
Has turned around again
Takes me for a ride
Back to the ocean's end
Carry on
Carry on
Carry on

Noone really know there's no predicting our way out
All we have is right now
It flows through you feel it now

The ever changing tide
Has turned around again
Takes me for a ride
to the ocean's end
My innocence is crying never have ya been
I'm at the oceans side
Feeling it again

The ever changing tide
(the everchanging tide)
Has turned around again
(has turned around again)
Takes me for a ride

To the ocean's end
Carry on
Carry on
Carry on
