

I'm Taking the Train Home

The Twilight Sad

Comments and memories attached
And when there's no one there
But the last moment and I'll pray
So why can't you come around?
And why can't you watch the ground?

And your green eyes turn to blue
And you're always, you're always fishing for the truth

So why can't you come around?
And like a cheating dream, and when the door's left open
My words fall flat, I'm holding the other now
And don't let the lights come down

And your green eyes turn to blue
And you're always, you're always fishing for the truth
And your green eyes turn to blue
And you're always, you're always fishing for the truth
And you're fishing for the truth
(So why don't you come around?)

And you're always, you're always
So why can't you come around?
And why can't you watch the ground?
I'm holding the other now and you're always and you're always
Your green eyes turn to blue, your green eyes turn to blue
And you're always, you're always, and you're always and you're always
Your green eyes turn to blue, your green eyes turn to blue

And you're always and you're always
Your green eyes turn to blue, your green eyes turn to blue
And you're always, you're always, and you're always and you're
always
Your green eyes turn to blue, your green eyes turn to blue