I can rely on you to always let me down And I trust you to never be around You will eat me out of house and hall You'll drink me dry and steal from me If we arrange to meet at eight You'll be late guaranteed Hey, hey, hey I'll take you on again Hey, hey, hey I'll take you on again You never can quit And you always come back wanting more But I always got less than I have bargained for You compare me to an angel Yes, Lucifer, I fell for you Fall on someone else 'Cause I've got better things I wanna do Hey, hey, hey I'll take you on again Hey, hey, hey I'll take you on again You never have said sorry You never apologize You're makin' me nervous You're trouble in disquise Can we pick up where it started? Where it ended, you know what I mean My mother had warned me "Don't go back to where you've been" Hey, hey, hey I'll take you on again Hey, hey, hey I'll take you on again

Hey, hey, hey

I'll take you on again

I'll take you on again
