The Veils

Some say you'll never be gone forever
Some say there's music where you go
I've no faith in my heart to tell two apart
Ocean above from sky below

Where I am going you can't save me

Don't wake me honey for love nor money
I have no more I can repay 'til we're here alone
And the seed has been sown
And night returns to break the day

Where I am going you can't save me
Where I am going you can't save me yet

A sea to dream in and a box to scream in
A world to love and a right to know
Now I hear violence out from the silence
Don't want me love? Then let me go

Where I am going you can't save me
Where I am going you can't save me yet
