

No One's Gonna Break This Heart (Again)

The Verve Pipe

A part of you is lost and never found
When love lifts you then it lets you down
Suffering reality, you feel the weight of gravity
It grabs you and it pulls you to the ground

And all the voices echo in your head
The resolutions you had left for dead
Once again your heart it breaks
You always make the same mistakes
Expecting something different in the end

And no one's gonna break this heart again
No one's ever gonna get close again
There's never gonna be a reason to pretend
There's never gonna be another bitter end
Until this heart of glass is a heart of stone
Buried out there someone in the Great Unknown
A solitary diamond to be left alone
Cause no one's gonna break this heart...

Everything seems so intertwined
The friends you had in common, left behind
The nights are getting longer
The desperation stronger
You're looking for some words, something kind

The part of you that you thought slipped away
Comes alive to live another day
And when it's unexpected
The heart is resurrected
And here we are meeting half the way

And no one's gonna break this heart again
No one's ever gonna get close again
There's never gonna be a reason to pretend
There's never gonna be another bitter end
Until this heart of glass is a heart of stone
Buried out there someone in the Great Unknown
A solitary diamond to be left alone
Cause no one's gonna break this heart...

No one's gonna break this heart again
No one's ever gonna get close again
There's never gonna be a reason to pretend
There's never gonna be another bitter end
And now this heart of glass is a heart of stone
A solitary diamond from the Great Unknown
It's brighter than the world has ever known
And no one's gonna break this heart...