

Allergic to Mornings

The View

Scared of what the day will bring
Chalk down all your fears
Hide your thoughts within
Out of reach where no one can see

Let your mind sleep in Lazy days, they're there to take
Slow right down, my friend
Your problems, they're not fake

Sometimes the wheels come off
But don't let the walls come in
Surround yourself with love
And life, oh, it might, oh, it might surprise you still, still

If you're allergic to mornings
Wake up in the afternoon
If you're allergic to mornings
Wake up in the afternoon
Wake up
With a brand new point of view

Manifest your good intentions
Start watching them all come true
And come out from under those covers
They're no longer the armour for you

I'll dispose of all your darkness
Lock it up and throw away the key
It would be my only purpose
It can give you some relief

And sometimes the wheels come off
But don't let the walls come in
Surround yourself with love
And life, oh, it might, oh, it might surprise you still

If you're allergic to mornings
Wake up in the afternoon
If you're allergic to mornings
Wake up in the afternoon
And wake up
With a brand new point of view

Let an idea catch fire within
You don't get shot down for thinking
Let an idea catch fire within
You might miss it for blinking
And now, imagine your mind is clear
Crystal like a diamond

If you're allergic to mornings
Wake up in the afternoon
If you're allergic to mornings
Wake up in the afternoon
If you're allergic to mornings
Wake up in the afternoon, noon

If you're allergic to mornings
Wake up in the afternoon, noon
Wake up
With a brand new point of view

And please, please
Stop looking for the love of you