

Burnout

The Warning

Wasted, never catching up
Still you think you're good enough
You're so blissfully unaware
Drag me down like you never cared

You lost all your ambitions in a flood of bad decisions you know, woah
You're making it too easy best believe you're gonna reap what you sow
, woah

Say you've got it so bad baby, yeah that's all you talk about
There ain't even a spark inside you left, nothing to put out
The smoke around you, splits us in two
You're just a burnout

(You're just a burnout)

Breaking empty promises
Talk is cheap when no one's listening

You plan your demolition with a list of self inflictions you know, woah

Say you've got it so bad baby, yeah that's all you talk about
There ain't even a spark inside you left, nothing to put out
The smoke around you, splits us in two
You're just a burnout

(You're just a burnout)
(You're just a burnout)
(You're just a burnout)

You'll find out sooner or later
You're always one step behind
The world just moves on without you
A waste of everyone's time
You'll find out sooner or later
You're always one step behind
The world just moves on without you

Say you've got it so bad baby, yeah that's all you talk about
There ain't even a spark inside you left, nothing to put out
The smoke around you fills up the room
Everything you do, it splits us in two
You're just a burnout

(You're just a burnout)
(You're just a burnout)
(You're just a burnout)
