The Wedding Present

I knew something wasn't quite right; you haven't said a word all night
We didn't even kiss
Now you're suddenly telling me that you're leaving me
Do I get a say in this?

I thought women were supposed to tell you how they're feeling
But you're really the most unrevealing

So have you felt like this for long and will you tell me what went wrong?
I don't know where I'm at
Oh, you have got to give me more than just "Hey, sorry, there's the door"
I think you owe me that

You might think you're sparing me but, no, I really don't care
I just need to know why

You don't love me any more
You don't love me any more

I trust you when you say there's no one else but, in a way, that would at least make sense
It is impossible to try to talk about all this when I don't know what I'm up against

You might think you're sparing me but, no, I really don't care
I just need to know why

You don't love me any more
You don't love me any more
You don't love me any more
