

Let's Forget That I Was Ever Even Here

The Wind and the Wave

We burned joints in your parents' garage
And laughed until our faces hurt so bad I had
To hold my cheeks down with my hands
Then everybody went to sleep
And left us watching the TV
I should have gone to bed an hour ago
There's an elephant inside the room
That only comes around when I'm near you
Is this a side-effect of fear?
The things I had learned to ignore
Are whispering and wanting more
They pour me drinks and pat me on the back

My heartbeat is coming right out of my chest
I feel bad for feeling this at all
Face is flushed, my eyes are bloodshot red
And I still do the dance and sing the same old song
La di da di da da da dum
La di da di da da da da dum

My brain is such a complicated mess
That's no excuse but let's forget
That I was ever even here
Oh, please don't reply to this
We're close but friends that's what this is
You pour me drinks and I pat you on the back

My heartbeat is coming right out of my chest
I feel bad for feeling this at all
Face is flushed, my eyes are bloodshot red
And I still do the dance and sing the same old song
La di da di da da da da dum
La di da di da da da da dum

So let this fire burn
Burn until the embers glow
Then cover them with dirt

My heartbeat is coming right out of my chest
I feel bad for feeling this at all
Face is flushed, my eyes are bloodshot red
And I still do the dance and sing the same old song
La di da di da da da da dum
La di da di da da da da dum
La di da di da da da da