The Wonder Years

The moon is hanging low over the central station
I watch the buses leave in silence, bound for foreign distant p laces

The Andes hold me close; a mothers only son
I feel weightless in the valley like I'm everywhere at once

I'm laying low
A stray dog in the street
You took me home
We're sister cities
I'm laying low
A stray dog in the street
You took me home
We're sister cities

We came here abandoned. An old brick faced apartment Rusted swing set in the courtyard like the one that I was born in
And I'm guarded like I'm wounded, my first instinct's always ru n
I wanna turn to steam, I wanna call it off
I want a light in the dark, I wanna swallow the sun

I'm laying low
A stray dog in the street
You took me home
We're sister cities
I'm laying low
A stray dog in the street
You took me home

I was just mange and skin and bone
You took me into your home
Kept warm on a blanket from your worn out winter coat

I'm laying low
A stray dog in the street
You took me home
We're sister cities
I'm laying low
A stray dog in the street
You took me home
We're sister cities

We're sister cities
