

When the Blue Finally Came

The Wonder Years

Watch the sun burn out and dig itself a grave
In the ocean south of Sydney off the interstate
And I hold out my hand trying not to shake
Watched you jump off of a cliff and start to levitate

And yeah I'm afraid
But I'll follow you anyway
When the blue finally came
It swallowed up everything

In the sea of trees
I thought that I'd hear ghosts in the waves
When the wind blew through
I heard joy return to a cold and lonesome place
I made out your voice
But I can't ask you to stay
Watched you walk into the woods
And start to levitate

And yeah I'm afraid
But I'll follow you anyway
When the blue finally came
It swallowed up everything
