

Face the Sun

This Is A Standoff

Shunned from a jealous one.
The guiltiness still weighs a ton,
but we've never solved our problems gracefully.

Light grey apologies,
but I'm still drinking to this day.
I need resolution now before I scream.
'cause I lie here wasted, never calms me down.

I never realized our problems were so grand
and that I'd never felt it.
I sort of knew you'd draw a line right in the sand.
I face the sun, I face the.

Falls down around the town,
and still you see those people frown.
I'm one step from begging people for their change.
My heart's gone down a size,
I feel compassion from your eyes.
I still wonder why you love me anymore.

I never realized our problems were so grand
and that I'd never felt it.
I sort of knew you'd draw a line right in the sand.
I face the sun, I face the sun.

I'm still wondering why you love me anymore.
I'm still wondering why you love me anymore,
'cause I lie here wasted, never calms me down.

I never realized our problems were so grand
and that I'd never felt it.
I sort of knew you'd draw a line right in the sand.
I face the sun, I face the sun.
