

Certain Words In Uncertain Times

This Providence

While forever seems to take its time we're still standing here in line waiting for the sun to rise as she looks on she's so confused her heart is lonely broken and bruised a closed circle with no more room for one more, screams "to hel l with you"

what's wrong with this picture?
what's wrong with this picture?
did you ever stop to think a thief in the night has come to ste
al your loved ones?
did you ever take the time to see the world around us is fallin g apart?

eyes closed
we've all had our eyes closed our hands behind our back we run and hide from everything that moves from everything that might put out this little light of mine

what's wrong with this picture?
what's wrong with this picture?
did you ever stop to think a thief in the night has come to ste
al your loved ones?
did you ever take the time to see the world around us is fallin
g apart?

where did our hero go and who did he dine with?
we say the world's gonna end in the end anyway
and anyway
i'm ok so it doesnt concern me and did you ever stop to think a thief in the night has come to steal your loved ones?

and did you ever take the time to see the world around us is fa lling apart?