

Indignance

Thou

The tightly clenched jaw-grinding, constricted, stemming bile. The overwide Eyes-red, burning, tearing Manifest and scientific view Cosmic nihilism and virtue
Those of a broader intelligence know that there is no distincti on between the real
And the unreal-affronts both actual and perceived and imagined
Determinism and morality
Reconciled by consciousness
Product of circumstance
That you must own
Now it's time to list a name in the catalog of grievances. Pain and pain and pain
Again sealed within a book, a thought, a fleeting memory. Pain
and pain and pain
Again crushed beneath a boot, a fist, a passing glance
