

Panic Stricken, I Flee

Thou

Suppression and subservience
Overwhelmed and discontent
Indentured to my petulance
Or maybe tantrum's what I meant
Acceptance is a settlement
Surrounding me in decadence
Embittered by impermanence
A poorly noted temperament

And it takes me from the path
It leaves me in the woods

Forsaken to a wilderness
A self-inflicted loneliness
Manifest my arrogance
Of my self-centered negligence
Approximation at its best
Compromise in ignorance
Sinking into wretchedness
Self-destructive negligence

I'm malcontent
Unsatisfied with these concessions
It's one letdown after another
Misunderstandings, endless struggle

Forsaken to a wilderness
A self-inflicted loneliness
Manifest my arrogance
Of my self-centered negligence
Approximation at its best
Compromise in ignorance
Submerged within my wretchedness
Self-destructive negligence

Cry for help
No one hears me
No one hears me
No one hears me
No one hears me