

Let Go Of Your Love

Thousand Below

Make me feel what you feel
Could you teach me to hate you for real?
I've been left alone, never known the bond that we share
With anyone else can you say that you cared?
Now I'm tossed aside, locked inside the prison you built
Finding out you're going out to love someone else

When I broke myself for you
Broke myself for you
And now I've gotta let go
And now I've gotta let go of your love
And now I've gotta let go
And now I've gotta let go of your love

And now I've gotta let go
And now I've gotta let go of your love

Do you think of me on any occasion?
You used to be my savior, my haven
My memories are plagued with you everywhere
Christmas and summertime birthdays, and all of those
Restaurants and funny things you'd say
And now you don't even care that I fell apart

And broke myself for you
Broke myself for you
And now I've gotta let go
And now I've gotta let go of your love
And now I've gotta let go
And now I've gotta let go of your love

And now I've gotta let go
And now I've gotta let go of your love