

Resurrection Day

Thunder

I was just living on
On the day they dropped the bomb
I was numb with a hard road in front of me
In the eye of the storm
So many long days I won't mourn
But I wept with joy when the black clouds disappeared

From a long, lonely night
I'm back into the light
And it feels just like it's resurrection day

Battle lines been drawn
You're in the dark before the dawn
And you're wondering why luck's such a random thing
Every plan from before
In dust upon the floor
And it's tough as hell when you're lower than a submarine

But you live through the fight
And you touch the other side
And it feels just like resurrection day
It feels just like it's resurrection day

Somehow you break through tin barricades
While the fires are burning
Sometimes you fall on your knees and pray

From a cold, lonely night
I'm back into the light
It feels just like resurrection day
Yes it feels just like resurrection day
I been waiting so long for resurrection day
