The Path

Thunderstone

Information overload, brains are melting down
What is right and what is wrong, who really owns the crown
Too many words of faith, cover up the truth in lies
Confusion, delusion. The devil in disguise

Under your bead you'll crawl
And deep asleep you'll fall

Dream about the pouring rain that makes you feel alive
Dream about the shining light, your power to survive
You will always find your way back to your home
This is the path you'll always roam

You're lost but you're never alone
Now it's time to choose your side
There's the one with glowing eyes
Don't you dare to trust his lies
You will find the right solution by listening to your heart
Decision, your vision will make you depart

Under your bead you'll crawl
And deep asleep you'll fall

Dream about the pouring rain that makes you feel alive
Dream about the shining light, your power to survive
You will always find your way back to your home
This is the path you'll always roam
