

Fading Hours

Tide Lines

Late one night when the sun had set
And time was lost for a while
Looking out onto the sand
Feeling the turn of the wind as it's gently blowing
A silhouette I could scarce forget
Stood the girl with the fairytale smile
Stepping out onto the strand
Feeling the touch of a hand as her eyes were closing
I can still see the evening fall

A long long night of promises
Words have never been spoken
Holding onto the memories
A heart that's never been broken

It was a careless kiss, I must confess
My God we were innocent then
Walking back home in the rain
Ahead of our time
We were always ahead of the game
I held my smile through the lonesome miles
But there was no need to pretend
Walking back home in the rain
Heart's on fire, going higher and feeling no pain
I can still hear the evening call

A long long night of promises
Words have never been spoken
Holding onto the memories
A heart that's never been broken
A long long night of promises
Words have never been spoken
Holding onto the memories
A heart that's never been broken

And in the fading hours
A man with misplaced pride got up to sing
Whilst on the boulevard
A hundred lovers waltzed upon the way

A long long night of promises
Words have never been spoken
Holding onto the memories
A heart that's never been broken
A long long night of promises
Words have never been spoken
Holding onto the memories
A heart that's never been broken
A long long night of promises
Words have never been spoken
Holding onto the memories
A heart that's never been broken
