

Watch The Stars

Tide Lines

I took a lot for granted waiting on you girl
I've seen the seats of empires right out across the world
When providence affords us all our broken dreams
Through chance and misconceptions nothing's as it seems

In the eyes of the unrepentant
In the soul of the holy man
In the heart of the loving mother
In the dreams of the traveling band

We can dance till morning
And we can watch the stars
Or we can stay right where we are

If you tell a fortune, if you can read the skies
If you can call the honest man from a false disguise
Then you'd in debt to no one, you're tethered to no chain
I wish you well, bid you adieu till we meet again

In the touch of a perfect stranger
In the pain of a broken heart
In the innocence of children
In the end and in the start

We can dance till morning
And we can watch the stars
Or we can stay right where we are

In the eyes of the unrepentant
In the soul of the holy man
In the heart of the loving mother
In the dreams of the traveling band

In the touch of a perfect stranger
In the pain of a broken heart
In the innocence of children
In the end and in the start

We can dance till morning
(We can dance till morn)
And we can watch the stars
(We can watch the stars)
Or we can stay right where we are
