Tigirlily Gold

I know you hate your first name
I know you had your first kiss in 9th grade
Those blue eyes came from your mom
You like singing the wrong words
You like wearing the that same shirt
You talk just like your dad
But I need more than that

Tell me all your little secrets
Get beneath your surface
I wanna know you, know you better, know you, know you
Being honest ain't a sign of weakness
So just let the deepest
Part of your soul
Unravel

Tell me what you're scared of
Tell me what you've always dreamed of
What you say when you talk to God
Let in me that place

Tell me all your little secrets
Get beneath your surface
I wanna know you, know you better, know you, know you
Being honest ain't a sign of weakness
So just let the deepest
Part of your soul
Unravel

The good, and the bad, all those hidden places
The happy, the sad, all your secret faces
I wanna know, that part of you
The naked truth

Tell me all your little secrets
Get beneath your surface
I wanna know you, know you better, know you, know you
Being honest ain't a sign of weakness
So just let the deepest
Part of your soul
Unravel
