

Rear View Mirror

Tim Finn

The man in the rear view mirror he looked so sad
Waiting for the lights to change he slowly drove away
I think I heard him say there's no music in the world.

I'll wait for you to sing
When the noise is deafening
Yeah, I'll be listening still
Keeping a vigil.

The man on the television is telling me that
There's somebody in the world who wants to take me down
And there's no common ground, there's no music in the world.

I'll wait for you to sing
When the noise is deafening
Yeah, I'll be listening still
Keeping a vigil.

Where's the music in the world ?

A man let somebody love him and when he looks back
It's upon a different place where everything felt so sad
Now his heart is glad and there's music in the world.

I'll wait for you to sing
When the noise is deafening
And all the walls cave in
And when your world won't spin
Yeah, I'll be listening still
Keeping a vigil.

Where's the music in the world ?
Put some music in the world.
