

Lay Down

Timothy Bloom

A bed full of roses, my heart is like a vacant pillow
Your body is the canvas, and I can't wait to picture you here
You're like the woman, the one who understands
We're part of the worldness, it's in the leture or divine in a plan

Whenever we lay down, lay down, lay
Whenever we lay down, lay down, lay

It's not the superstitous, you see it written on the walls (written on the walls)
We're rebels like a tattoo (tattoo), we'll stay together until we fall
Never doubt the existence, like the ancient pyramid
Girl there's something so sacred, how will I ever resist?

Whenever we lay down, lay down, lay
Whenever we lay down, lay down, lay

But in the beginning, there was Adam and Eve
God blessed the union that you and I can achieve
I ain't looking for a wonder, or searching for a sign
Could this really be heaven? 'cause my soul is on fire

Whenever we lay down, lay down, lay
Whenever we lay down, lay down, lay

(Hey)
Lay down, lay down, lay
Lay down, lay down, lay
