

More

Tina Dico

Don't misunderstand me now
But when people saw a match in you and I
I always wondered why
I always thought we were the strangest combination
Heat and cold, obedience versus defiance
But I kind of figured I'd take one day at a time
May as well try before we say goodbye
And now I realise you've sneaked up on my heart
And left me loving you, this time I can't deny

I have never needed you like this before
Now I don't waste my energy on doubts no more

All of a sudden it seems obvious that this was meant to be
They saw through you and me
They saw that underneath that arrogance of yours
I'd find a fragile heart as loving as can be
I know I've let you down a hundred times before
I'd sometimes flee
I'm sorry, that's just me
But you've convinced me with the strength of this pure love
And now it's my turn to set in to make you see

I have never needed you like this before
Now I don't waste my energy on doubts no more

Did I push you away with my doubts
When I left you lonely then
Not knowing when we'd meet again?
Did I hesitate for too long
Has your love given up on me
Ready now to let it be?

I know I've let you down a hundred times before
I'd sometimes flee
I'm sorry, that's just me
But you've convinced me with the strength of this pure love
And now it's my turn to set in to make you see

I have never needed you like this before
Now I don't waste my energy on doubts no more
I have never needed you like this before
What it is you're giving me I just want more...