

Coffee With Tom

Tiny Moving Parts

You drank coffee in college and I did the same
9 o' clock is when our session starts
The taste burns deep inside my tongue
Newspaper articles are useless
We have each other
And to let you know Tom
You have refilled more than just my mug

A lost child at the playground
Mom's gone and there's no one left to play along
Your imaginary best friends are all whose left to push you on the swi ng set
All my comfort is in the water
My bloodstream runs deep in our 10,000 lakes
But sadly I forgot how to swim

My confidence has left my head
But I promise I'll get it back
It's just like a chameleon with my tail cut off
But I promise I'll get it back
Bigger and stronger than ever before

Someday I want to die
In your bed alone at night
Counting sheep
Hoping that they'll take me far from everything
Hoping that they'll take me far from you and me
It's time for me to grow and to understand what life is
But I feel as if it's already to late

Waking up when everything is everything you wanted waking up to be

Age 20 years young
I suddenly cry myself to sleep
(You have so many years ahead)
I know but if it weren't for you
I would be sleeping in the van with Bill
Like a slumber party
Just without the fun

First things first
I will thank you everyday
Right when I wake up
And I taste that sunset through the window
When I do move on I will miss you
More than my Diamond Dallas Page action figurine

Waking up when everything is everything you wanted waking up to be
