Holyland

Todd Rundgren

For as long as I remember I've been searching for the holyland From across the ocean Over the mountain to the desert sand Under every rock and stone Looking for a sacred plan

But now I understand This is the holyland Every drop of rain Blade of grass Grain of sand Is in the holyland

Everywhere I go I see it Even though so many want to stake their claim They say history and gods foretell the answer Conjure up some ancient game Take away the gates and fences Everything is all the same

No matter where you stand You're in the holyland Every hill and dale Mountain stream Forest stand Earth is the holyland
