

Second Time

Tom Grennan

Never thought the door would close, always thought you'd keep it open for me
I was just a child I suppose, with a head full of smoke and dreams
Now I hear you wanna move on, looking for that someone, someone who can treat you better
But say there's still a light on, and I'll be there tonight, I'm hoping that your heart won't let ya

Let you fall in love for a second time, haven't found a way to drink you off my mind
I should let go, God knows I've tried, so won't you fall in love for a second
Love for a second time?

I know you did it once, so I'm praying you can do it again
If I take you to the places, talk to you the way I did back then
Now I hear you wanna move on, looking for that someone, someone who can treat you better
But say there's still a light on, and I'll be there tonight, I'm hoping that your heart won't let ya

Let you fall in love for a second time, haven't found a way to drink you off my mind
I should let go, God knows I've tried, so won't you fall in love for a second
Love for a second time?
Won't you fall in love for a second time?

Once bitten, twice shy, some fires don't die
After all these lows, maybe we're owed some highs
Once bitten, twice shy, some fires don't die
After all these lows, maybe we're owed some highs

Won't you fall in love for a second time? Haven't found a way to drink you off my mind
I should let go, God knows I've tried, so won't you fall in love for a second?

Let you fall in love for a second time, haven't found a way to drink you off my mind
I should let go, God knows I've tried, so won't you fall in love for a second
Love for a second time?
Won't you fall in love for a second time?
Won't you fall in love for a second?
