Promise Her Anything

Tom Jones

She doesn't really want A things that you can never get Still every now and then Maybe she'll complain a bit Because she feels upset

She only wants you to tell her That you love her So if she wants you to Turn Winter into Spring

Promise her anything
She's dreaming of
Promise her anything
She will be happy
If she only gets your love

She had a lot of dreams
And you can make them all come true
? Cause all she really wants
Is to know you care for her
The way she cares for you

So why not promise her ruby Even diamonds She'd trade them all for A plain golden wedding ring

Promise her anything
She's dreaming of
Promise her anything
She will be happy
If she only gets your love

Oh, you can promise her the moon When the sun is bright And promise her the sun When you're out at night

Promise her the world and promise her Every wish is your command And you'll discover soon She doesn't want the moon, just love will do

Promise her anything
But don't you ever let her
Get away from you

Oh, you can promise her the moon When the sun is bright And promise her the sun When you're out at night

Promise her the world and promise her Every wish is your command And you'll discover soon She doesn't want the moon, just love will do Promise her anything
But don't you ever let her
Get away from you
