These Things You Don't Forget

Tom Jones

(Things you don't forget)

I recall the sound of her voice
And the tender touch of her lips
And the way she sighed whenever we kissed

These things you don't forget
These things you don't forget
Although she's no longer mind
Memories are stronger than time

I remember stars in her eyes
And the touch of moonlight in her hair
And the sweet perfume she used to wear

These things you don't forget
These things you don't forget
Although it's so hard to bear
Knowing she no longer cares

The smile she wore on her face
(These things you don't forget)
The thrill of her warm embrace
(These things you don't forget)
The dream we were dreaming of
These things you don't forget
