

Fight Your Fears

Tom MacDonald

Yeah

Remember when you told me that you wouldn't first night
And I said that I respect it but it felt so right, but we didn't
It's different from like every other time
That we ever met somebody underneath the city lights
You agreed, it's been me and you since then
It's been hotter than we thought it would be being just friends
You would come to my apartment and lay your ass on the carpet
And talk bout how you got started taking classes in college
And I would listen for as long as I could
Couple minutes and reminders why I mention I'm good
I'm underneath the palm trees thinking 'bout you
Getting caught up in the rain back home in Vancouve'
I been out here, you been at home
Wonder if you even think about me at all
I wanna do it properly and get you some property
Before we started getting happily and it ended all awfully
I never met another model so in love with breaking mirrors
It was a troubled adolescent years
I used to ask her if she wanted to hear the truth
I said you know I love you but I cannot fight your fears for you

I can't fight your fears for you
I can't fight your fears for you
I can't fight your fears for you
I can't fight your fears for you
I can't fight your fears for you

I can't fight your fears for you
Even though I would kill for you
But I keep it real with you
Tell you when you aren't winning
I can't fight your battles
There's some places you must travel on your own
But I love you when you come home again

We're getting through everything and we still going through it
I done did everything but I'm still gon' do it
I been shot through the heart but I know she still gon' shoot it
And her heart ain't broken no more but I'm still gon' glue it back together
'Til we're back together 'til we not together
Then we back together in this motherfucker
Making love and reservations without any reservations
'Bout the shit that we were doing separated, that's the realness
Fuck how I feel shit, love you way to goddamn much to let it out, kill this
Swear to God you would come around and hang out in the kitchen
While I tried to make some fancy shit for dinner on a budget
I'd say "Sorry," you'd say "Fuck it." We never worried about money
We were drinking the cheapest wine and in fact we loved it
Maybe we just loved each other as much as we said
It was always me and you, and the world we up against
I never met another girl I'd really make a change for
Or make love on the same floors we were bleeding on for the last week or two
When she wanted help and I said I can't fight your fears for you

I can't fight your fears for you

I can't fight your fears for you
I can't fight your fears for you
I can't fight your fears for you
I can't fight your fears for you

I can't fight your fears for you
Even though I would kill for you
But I keep it real with you
Tell you when you aren't winning
I can't fight your battles
There's some places you must travel on your own
But I love you when you come home again

I can't fight your fears for you
Even though I would kill for you
But I keep it real with you
Tell you when you aren't winning
I can't fight your battles
There's some places you must travel on your own
But I love you when you come home
