

Walls

Tom MacDonald

Everything's my fault
Everything's me
I don't fit in the place where the world wants me to be
They never give you a chance, they just label you bad, you'll see
You'll be sick of their shit, and build walls up in between

You are not a friend and not accept me
All you ever did was not defend me
Your touch was cold and your heart was empty
You ain't comin' in, the walls protect me

These walls, these walls, these walls, these walls, they're coming down
These walls, these walls, so tall, look from the ground to the clouds

These walls, these walls, these walls, these walls, they're coming down
Brick by brick, brick by brick, I built them all
These walls, these walls, so tall, look from the ground to the clouds
Brick by brick, brick by brick, I built them tall

Everything's my fault
Everything's me
I will never be the man that the world wants me to be
They never give you a shot, they'll just label, you'll rot, you'll see
And you'll want them to stop, and put walls up in between

You are not a friend and not accept me
All you ever did was not defend me
Your touch was cold and your heart was empty
You ain't comin' in, the walls protect me

These walls, these walls, these walls, these walls, they're coming down
These walls, these walls, so tall, look from the ground to the clouds

These walls, these walls, these walls, these walls, they're coming down
Brick by brick, brick by brick, I built them all
These walls, these walls, so tall, look from the ground to the clouds
Brick by brick, brick by brick, I built them tall

I've built these walls around me
So they leave me alone
Babe, they're as strong as concrete
But you've been making holes
I don't know how you found me
It's my fault you can't get close
'Cause I've built these walls around me
And I built 'em strong

These walls, these walls, these walls, these walls, they're coming down
Brick by brick, brick by brick, I built them all
These walls, these walls, so tall, look from the ground to the clouds
Brick by brick, brick by brick, I built them tall