From a table across the room

She was signaling me with her eyes
I walked over to be introduced
I said, "Hello", she just smiled

And said, "I know a place not too far from here We could get away for awhile"
Yeah, that's when she kissed me and told me her name I never did tell her mine, oh

Magnolia

I remember the smell of the wind through the sweet Magnolia And I know that she's out there somewhere in the world She's forgotten me but I remember her Magnolia

Well, her lips were as warm as that wet southern night Her eyes were as black as the sky And I wondered aloud just what I done right As I lay there with her by my side

Then she took hold of my hand as she looked up at me And said, "Now I must tell you goodbye"

And there in the moonlight as I watched her leave
I felt a chill down inside, oh

Magnolia

I remember the smell of the wind through the sweet Magnolia And I know that she's out there somewhere in the world She's forgotten me but I remember her Magnolia

Oh, I remember the smell of the wind through the sweet Magnolia Oh, I remember the smell of the wind through the sweet Magnolia