

Call My Name

Tones And I

How we supposed to know if we're just friends?
How we supposed to know if we are meant to be?
So tell me if you wanna play pretend
But nothing really matters in the end with me

Oh, we are both strangers caught in a fire
Nothing can change us each other's mind
Never be something, never be mine, oh no
Oh, we are both strangers caught in a fire
Nothing can change us each other's mind
Never be something, never be mine, oh no

But if I was to lose you now, would you still call my name?
Would you still call my name?
Would you still call my name?
And if I was to lose you now, would you still call my name?
Would you still call my name?
Would you still call my name?

Can we build the tension in the air?
Minutes turn to seconds, when you're here with me
Holding onto heaven, take me there
Losing all our senses, I don't fear the deep

Oh, we are both strangers caught in a fire
Nothing can change us each other's mind
Never be something, never be mine, oh no

But if I was to lose you now, would you still call my name?
Would you still call my name?
Would you still call my name?
And if I was to lose you now, would you still call my name?
Would you still call my name?
Would you still call my name?

But if I was to lose you now, would you still call my name?
Would you still call my name?
Would you still call my name?
And if I was to lose you now, would you still call my name?
Would you still call my name?
Would you still call my name?